Millions Made for Holiday Rush So Everyone Can Record Many Happy Incidents in Life's History.

> BY FELIX HOLT. (Staff Photographer of The News Scimitar.)

What is Christmas without a camera? That is the question that will come into the minds of thousands of people, both young and old, during the Christmas buying season of this year. Of all celebrations that are observed there are none which rank in prominence to that of Christmas, and people of all walks of life are especially fond of having pictorial reminders of this pleasant holiday, and the days which make up the Yuletide season.

This fact is borne out in the ingreasing demand by the people for cameras come to the point where it plays one of the most important roles in American life. Along with the typewriter, the camera handle in the individual of the pleasant times which it has afforded.

During the Yuletide nearly everyone indulges in some sort of pleasantry or celebration, and at all Christmas gath one of the pleasant times which it has afforded.
